

Emerging Data Risks Loom Large Over CLOs

Compliance and Ethics

Litigation and Dispute Resolution

Technology, Privacy, and eCommerce

---

Banner artwork by GaudiLab / Shutterstock.com

Data breaches are the biggest data-related threat chief legal officers (CLOs) want to mitigate in 2024, according to the newly released 2024 ACC Chief Legal Officers Survey.

One-third (34 percent) of CLOs say that data breaches are the biggest data-related threat to mitigate in 2024, followed by privacy/regulatory enforcement (32 percent), and other cybersecurity threats (24 percent). And two-fifths (40 percent) reported that they plan on instituting new processes to help defend against these threats.

Yet, despite years of focus and spending on data-related threats, just 9 percent of respondents are “very confident” in their organization’s ability to mitigate emerging data risks — the lowest level of the last five years.

```
!function(){
"use strict";
window.addEventListener("message", (function(a){
if(void 0!==a.data["datawrapper-height"]){
var e=document.querySelectorAll("iframe");
for(var t in a.data["datawrapper-height"]){
for(var r=0;r
```